What is Place Shapers n.y.c.?

Place Shapers is a traveling retreat series that brings together professionals who work with cities in more than 15 practices.

Place Shapers n.y.c. will be the third installment of TICCO's Place Shapers retreat series. Previously held in Long Beach, CA and Detroit, MI, Place Shapers will grow to 100 attendees in New York this summer.

This purposefully-intimate gathering will bring practitioners to the New York Center for Architecture for two days as they build working relationships across disciplines and discuss new approaches to city building.

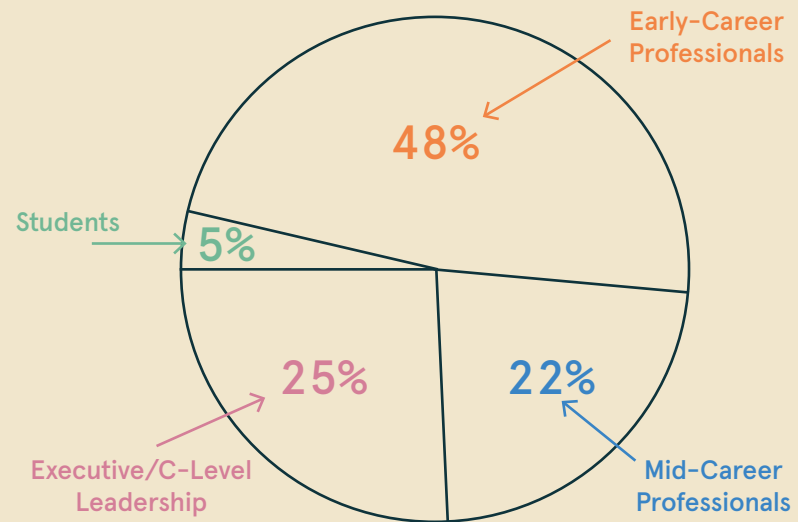

Place Shapers n.y.c. will build upon the success of TICCO's two prior sold-out retreats to offer a series of panels with East Coast thought leaders and built environment practitioners, live podcast recordings, hands-on workshops, and a keynote from award-winning Urban Designer Justin Garrett Moore.

Past Attendees Represented

Past Sponsors Include

“I absolutely loved the synergy of so many different perspectives focused on common issues in one gathering. I left energized and inspired.”

Fern Nueno
Urban Planner, City of Long Beach

“Ticco Retreats feel like a gathering of friends and colleagues rather than a sea of attendees at a conference, resulting in close connections and meaningful conversations.”

Blake Rhinehart
Landscape Architect, Terrain Studio
